

VENTA and its Partners Steal the Stage At the Barrett Jackson Collector Car Auction

Company Showcases the New Tazzari Zero Italian Electric Sports Car

COSTA MESA, Calif. – July 15, 2010

A hot new electric roadster took over the show floor at the recent Barrett Jackson Collector Car Auction at the Orange County Fair & Events Center. VENTA, the nation's leading firm finding, developing, and distributing environmentally friendly products and technologies in the automotive arena, and its partners brought the new Tazzari Zero electric sports car to the stage and forever changed the perception of electric vehicles.

“The reception for the new Tazzari Zero sports car among the media, buyers, car collectors and auto enthusiasts was phenomenal,” said VENTA Chief Executive Officer Dmitri Tisnoi.

The Tazzari Zero is the first Italian all-electric vehicle and comes with a cast-aluminum frame, classic Italian workmanship, stylish handling, a central motor, rear wheel drive and a low center of gravity powered by Li-Ion Fe batteries. A two-seater, weighing just 545 kg (1202 lb) will clearly demonstrate unique owner identity.

It was showcased at the Barrett Jackson Collector Car Auction, one of the premier annual collectable car shows. The company produces the “World’s Greatest Collector Car Events” in Scottsdale, Ariz.; Palm Beach, Fla.; Las Vegas and in Orange County, Calif.

“The Barrett Jackson Collector Car Auction is one of the top collector car shows in the country,” Tisnoi said. “This was a great place to debut the next generation of cool electric vehicles.”

About VENTA

VENTA Inc. (www.ventainc.com) is dedicated to finding, developing, and distributing environmentally friendly products and technologies in the automotive arena from all over the world to a network of car dealerships and other automotive end users. The company aims to establish its brand presence as the mass distributor of top-selling Electric Vehicles (EVs) in the marketplace available today.

Media Contact:

VENTA, Inc.

Phone: 888-VENTA-08

info@ventainc.com